Can we put the Ebola Genie Back in the Bottle?

Medical personnel in multiple countries are testing positive after caring for those who have died of Ebola. Hundreds of health workers in West Africa have become infected where the death rate is 70% to 90%.

Only 10% to 30% of humans have immune ability to withstand Ebola. In a moment, we will discuss how the survival rate may be extended to 100%.

There are strong indications that some countries will be decimated. The World Health Organization (WHO) declares the end to an outbreak in a country when 42 days without a new case is reached. Nigeria’s 42\textsuperscript{nd} day was October 20, 2014.

Nigeria surveillance remains on high alert. They understand the vulnerability from a new imported case. President Goodluck Jonathan has ordered continued vigilance at the nation's borders. Doctors Without Boarders have played a significant role in helping stop Ebola in Nigeria.

When is Ebola Contained?

Ebola is contained by keeping the infected from the uninfected. Ebola was contained because it was so lethal that it killed every man, woman and child in the village before they could travel to another village. Today, you can circle the globe faster than you can trek to a distant village.
The virus becomes latent for decades before it breaks out again. Its longevity is unknown. Ebola will return at a more opportune time.

WHO said the number of deaths in Africa is probably three times the number earlier quoted. WHO also acknowledged the Ebola epidemic continues to accelerate in Guinea, Liberia and Sierra Leone. They declared the outbreak ended in Senegal on October 17 and in Nigeria on October 21.

The Fatal Flaw in the Ebola Test

The fatal flaw in the Ebola test is that the test does not become positive until the symptoms manifest for a few days. An infected person will test negative until there is viral buildup in the body. Dr Nancy Khardouri, director of infectious disease at Eastern Virginia Medical School has studied and treated infectious diseases for the past 30 years. She says the test is a main concern with the virus.

We witnessed the fatal flaw manifest with the first New York City Ebola patient, Dr Craig Spencer.

German Doctors provide evidence

German Doctors provide evidence that Ebola can be transmitted BEFORE the patient has the symptoms. There is a high risk of acute infection from contact with bodily fluids, such as blood, sweat, vomit, feces, urine, saliva or semen. Those fluids must have an entry point, like a cut or scrape or someone touching the nose, mouth or eyes with contaminated hands, or being splashed.

Contamination can be made by touching a doorknob or surface. A hand shake, cough or sneeze can transmit Ebola before the transmitter ever develops a fever. Incubation period for Ebola seems to be from one to three weeks or more (7 to 21+ days). As the number of infections increases, so does the export possibility that a person with Ebola will carry it to another country.

BEYOND Ebola

Beyond Ebola is already here. CDC reminds US that sexually transmitted diseases are a hidden epidemic. Today, 110 million in US have STD (50.5 million men and 59.5 million women). Influenza is #7 of the 17 leading causes of death in US. The influenza pandemic of 1918-1919 was considered the most devastating epidemic that killed more people than World War I. WHO’s Global Tuberculosis Report 2014 confirms that TB remains the second greatest infectious disease killer, infecting about nine million people last year, killing 1.5 million. Pandora’s box of drugs is not much hope. Resistance to infection is found in natural immunology.

Mathematical Calculations

Mathematical calculations favor Ebola once it gains a foothold. Global health officials are looking closely at the “reproduction number,” in West Africa which estimates how many people will be infected by each person stricken. A recent analysis projects the number at 1.5 to 2. The epidemic will begin to decline when that number falls below one. Meanwhile, the outbreak is unprecedented.

Viral speed is much faster than bureaucracy real time. Cases in Africa are doubling about every three weeks. There is indication that for every two known Ebola cases three more are not reported. Ebola propagates in mucous membranes that makes contamination easier and more likely.

WHO warns that West Africa can soon face up to 10,000 new Ebola cases a week. The head of the CDC warned that the Ebola virus could become a global calamity on the scale of HIV.

Doctors Without Borders
(Note: Medecins Sans Frontieres (MSF) is the medical charity known in English as Doctors Without Borders).

We have reports that 22 of its staff were infected with Ebola and that 12 have already died. Their website in October stated they have treaded “around 3,200 confirmed Ebola cases and around 1,140 have survived.” Using the figures from their website indicates more than 2,000 have died of Ebola.

A spokesman for MSF said that staffs at those locations were issued personal protective equipment that includes, among other things:

- Cape
- Gloves
- Rubber surgical apron
- Surgical trousers and tunic
- Rubber boots
- Respirator mask/face protector
- Hood
- Wraparound goggles / Antifog spray

for a total cost of about $90. Some of the protective gear is sanitized and reused and some wearable items are used once then destroyed.

Juli Switala, a South African pediatrician with MSF, explained that her team had to make difficult decisions to not resuscitate babies out of fear that the staff may be infected. The outbreak is devastating Guinea, Liberia and Sierra Leone.

Lucey said, "I don't see a light at the end of the tunnel. The epidemic is still getting worse." Lucey is a physician/professor from Georgetown University.

The MSF has offices in 28 countries, and in 1999 it won a Nobel Peace Prize. The money was used to study neglected diseases.

New York City’s First Confirmed Ebola Case

Dr Craig Spencer, with Doctors Without Borders, recently returned from Guinea. This is the 4th patient in the US - and the first in New York City diagnosed with Ebola. Three of the four are doctors returning from Africa where they were treating Ebola patients.

A city spokesperson said officials are attempting to track all of his contacts including a trip from Manhattan to Brooklyn on the subway and a visit to a bowling alley.

The doctor returned to US within the past 21 days. The report said Spencer worked in emergency medicine at New York-Presbyterian Hospital/ Columbia University Medical Center, and taught at Columbia University.

It is confirmed that the doctor cleared the newest enhanced screening protocols when he returned from Africa through JFK Airport on Oct. 17. He went through multiple layers of screening and did not have a fever or other symptoms of illness. The CDC met with little or no success to quell online concerns that their processes do not work.

The CDC is adjusting the protocol to 'post-arrival monitoring' by state and local health departments for 21 days after returning from an Ebola country. The incubation period is 21 days but some health authorities put it at 42 days. They confess that Ebola is proving to be a tricky pathogen to spot in patients who appear well. Americans have lost confidence in the CDC’s ability to contain Ebola. And, most disapprove of President Obama’s handling of the outbreak.

Untrained workers after having contact with the infected Dr Spencer, removed their protective suits, touched the outside of the suits and discarded them in public trash cans. Unbelieveable guidance from our government medical professionals.

Ebola is Biosafety Level 4 (BSL-4)

Experts in infectious diseases, microbiologists, immunologists and epidemiologists, are alarmed at the procedures and lack of precautions used to protect US from Ebola. Doctors, aid workers and military personnel can be in serious danger when they use BSL-3 equipment in a BSL-4 situation.

Ebola is declared a Biosafety Level 4 (BSL-4) pathogen. Level 4 is the highest virulence designation for infectious agents. Ebola Zaire, the strain that’s gone wild is considered the worst of the strains. Erik Rush explained the pathogen comparison.

Effective BSL-4 personal protective equipment is flexible impenetrability material and High-efficiency Particulate Air (HEPA) filtration designed to filter out viruses. There is profound concern for the thousands of US military personnel working with Ebola patients who are not wearing BSL-4 gear. Pictures confirm that personnel are wearing Biosafety Level 3 (BSL-3) protective equipment made from Tyvek suits, paper face masks and a face shield that’s open at the bottom. Tyvek is tough material but easily punctured by any sharp object. Should any contaminant splash onto a paper mask, the wearer will most likely breathe the contamination.

Reports are coming in that precautions are inadequate. Health workers have been hit hard by the virus. A UN worker died of Ebola in a German hospital despite "intensive medical procedures." The St. George hospital in Leipzig said the 56-year-old man tested positive for Ebola on Oct. 6 and died a week later, prompting Liberia's U.N. peacekeeping mission to put 41 other staff members under "close medical observation."

Congo Reports New Ebola Cases

The reports are sketchy coming out of the Democratic Republic of the Congo but WHO has confirmed (or probable) 62 cases of the Congo Ebola. The deathrate in the Congo is 90%. Congo Ebola is somewhat different to the Zaire Ebola.

A team of national and international specialists have been deployed to the Congo to work with the local response teams. Patients are being treated in temporary isolation units in Watsi Kengo, Lokolia, Boende, and Boende Muke. A mobile laboratory from the National Institute of Biomedical Research (INRB) has been installed in Lokolia and is currently functional. Two laboratory epidemiologists from the US Centers for Disease Control and Prevention have arrived in DRC to support the INRB field team.

It appears Ebola is under control in the Congo and the WHO may declare the country Ebola free after 42 days of no new cases. Recently, 49 people have died in the Congo with the last confirmed case of Ebola in October 2014.

Since the July 2014 outbreak of Congo Ebola, reports are that the Obama administration has brought into the US at least 1,900 refugees from the disease-stricken nation who have been resettled in the US according to statistics provided by the State Department.

The Congo Ebola strain is slightly different from the virus that has been ravaging West Africa. Researchers have concluded the Congolese outbreak is not connected to the epidemic in West Africa.

The Bureau of Population, Refugees and Migration’s report shows 944 refugees were admitted from the Congo in July; 628 in August and 338 in September, for a total of 1,910 Congolese refugees.
The U.S. refugee program this year is on pace to resettle 70,000 citizens, including a limit for the fiscal year of 2014 of 14,000 from Africa, with the State Department giving priority to Congolese refugees.

The report documents the U.S. has given priority to Congolese refugees, as the U.S. has joined the United Nations and international resettlement community in an effort to resettle 50,000 Congolese over the next few years.

More Danger Today Because of These Really Bad Choices:

- The CDC recently, AGAIN, lost vials of bird flu viruses, anthrax and other highly pathogenic materials.

- The Dallas Ebola patient’s family was left in their apartment with bloody sheets for three days, knowing Ebola spreads by contact with bodily fluids.

- Infectious bodily fluids were pressure sprayed into the air and flushed down the city drain. Some vomit may have been eaten by a dog which can be infected.

- The CDC director said that it would be counterproductive to cut off air travel.

- Our borders are intentionally left wide open. Border patrol agents report that illegal aliens are crossing the US border with serious infectious diseases - at least 71 undocumented immigrants from Ebola outbreak nations during the first seven months of 2014.

- FBI Director said that we can't stop Americans fighting with ISIS from re-entering the country. This is unbelievable since they have declared war on US.

- In New York City, untrained workers after having contact with the infected Dr Spencer, removed their protective suits, touched the outside of the suits and discarded them in public trash cans.

"Ebola Jihad"

Ebola Jihad has been declared on America by ISIS and to purposely infect people and fly them into US. Reports are that terrorists have been arrested at the Texas border. Wrong is called right, bitter is called sweet, lies are called truth and bad choices continue to come in waves. Political correctness and Executive Orders do not change diseases nor the laws of physics. Why are correct protocols not followed?

3 Reasons for bad choices

The three reasons for all bad choices are ignorance, neglect or rebellion, period. When all three of these reasons happen at the same time, it is probably political.

Not having the right knowledge, neglecting to act on right knowledge or consciously choosing wrong over right makes right choices impossible. People perish where there is no vision or make wrong choices.

Many scientists and world leaders are on record as they have espoused population control as the solution to solve the planet’s problems.
I recall a national disaster in Bangladesh that killed 100,000 people. An official’s response still rings in my ears and sends chills up my spine, “The monsoon was a failure. It only killed 100,000.”

Population reduction policy for the planet is taught in our universities and espoused by globalists. The idea is to reduce the world’s population by 2 billion people by whatever means. Some have gone as far as to openly recommend what profile is used for population reduction: homosexuals, poor people, blacks and those who are not productive.

The Policy is outlined in the U.S. State Department's Office of Population Affairs, established in 1975 by Henry Kissinger. This group drafted the Carter administration's Global 2000 document, which calls for global population reduction and the policy constitutes conscious depopulation projects.

The elites believe development programs have created a population time bomb. This is the rationalization for reducing the population by 2 billion people. If there were no population control there will be civil war and greater food shortages because there are just are too many people. The globalists blame themselves for letting people breed like flies, for increasing the survival rate, for extending life, for lowering the death rate. They consider it their own failure for not reducing the birth rate before. So drastic action is now required.

Famous people in high positions of government and finance are on record that the "'population crisis’ may be a greater threat to national security than "nuclear annihilation."

Ron Klain, Obama’s Ebola Czar, with no medical experience, has stated that one of his biggest-fears is “overpopulation especially in Asia and Africa that lack the resources to have a healthy, happy life.” Klain added, “And I think we’ve got to find a way to make the world work for everyone.”

The United States will continue a foreign policy based on a genocidal reduction of the world's population. "We have a network in place of cothinkers in the government," said the OPA case officer. "We keep going, no matter who is in the White House."
Bio-weapons are a reality and if Ebola were used in a jihad scenario, it should be treated as a nuclear attack on US. A Missouri physician accuses CDC of dereliction of duty with Ebola. “It’s reactionary, not responsive.” Dr Gil Mobley is a microbiologist and trauma physician in Springfield, Missouri. He returned from a medical mission trip in Guatemala and was not asked any questions upon re-entry into the country other than if he had alcohol or cigarettes. When he came through Customs: “They didn’t ask me where I’d been. They didn’t ask me if I’d been sick. They didn’t ask me if I’d had a fever. And they didn’t thermo-scan for my temperature.” This was after the Ebola case in Dallas.

A microbiology expert with 30 years experience, Dr. William Miller, author of the pioneering book “The Microcosm Within: Evolution and Extinction in the Hologenome,” said the establishment is on the wrong side of medical science and is playing Russian roulette by keeping our borders porous. Dr. Miller explained that the plan will inflict a suicidal wound on US.

Were Pogo and Chicken Little both right?
“We have met the enemy and it is us.”
“The sky is falling! The sky is falling!”

But wait, the war is not over! Deception will be exposed and truth will set us free.

Why Ebola Became Political

Politicians have stressed that you cannot let a crisis go to waste. Instead of solving the crisis, too often the response is: “What can we get out of it.” The more mass confusion created, the more the public is willing to yield control to the politicians. A viral pandemic is most effective in creating a domino effect for control.

Statesman and Senator Ted Cruz (R-TX), says the U.S. Ebola policy
"seems to be dictated by politics rather than a common-sense approach to protecting the American public."

Donald Trump speculated that there's "something seriously wrong with President Obama's mental health" for refusing to cut off flights to countries with active Ebola cases. Trump added, "He's either incompetent, he's very stubborn or there's something wrong."

Dr Ben Cason says that we should fear Martial Law. President Obama and the politicians and bureaucrats evidence more concern about political power, wealth and their own selfish desires than they do about our country and its citizens.

Bad political strategy use the uninformed, the ignorant. The uninformed are played for fools for votes with meaningless words. Ebola may be the ultimate crisis they cannot let go to waste. Ebola could be the perfect “act of nature’s crisis” to make the failures of man seem insignificant.

His own administration sees that he is willing to sacrifice them. Instead of promised transparency, it is a steady stream of lies, egregious violation of our laws, obstruction of justice, victimizing, spying, decimation of military, flagrant disregard for our Constitution, targeting those who disagree with him, aiding terrorists, illegally swapping five terrorists for a presumed traitor, gun grabbing, gun running, treason and now aiding Ebola and ISIS. A groundswell of good people who have before done nothing now see the treasonist acts.

We have already seen whole industries threatened or destroyed by Executive Orders. Obama quietly gave himself the power to impose Martial Law, bypassing both the Constitution and Congress through Executive Order. Executive Order No. 13603, the National Defense Resources Preparedness Executive Order gives him assumed power. Many believe a manufactured crisis could in his mind permit him to bring about socialism in America, allow him to create a powerful regime and declare himself a supreme dictator over all the land.

When leaders double down on propaganda that is clearly illogic and untrue, the citizens cannot and should not have confidence in their words.
Misrepresentations and nebulous assurances that all possible precautions are used to combat the spread of Ebola raises suspicions because words and actions are not congruent.

The CDC boasts that they know what they are doing and have been doing it for many years. But, the facts show that only 1,528 people died from Ebola in the 36 years from 1976 to 2012 and now over 4,000 have died from Ebola in the last few months. Is the disease driving the disease or is something else aiding the epidemic?

Clearly they have determined that political expedience trumps public concerns. Is there a diabolical plan underway?

Disaster follows the promotion of the incompetent into position of authority. Nowhere is this “Peter Principle” manifest more profoundly than when the uninformed voters elect unprepared leaders.

How Big of a Health Crisis Can Be Created or Allowed to Happen?

Governments have engineered biological weapons for decades. Weapons of mass destruction have been found in Iraq and are now in the hands of ISIS. The missing Malaysian Airline plane and captured fighter jets are likely in ISIS’s hands in northern Syria. Eye witnesses have observed training of pilots as they conduct take-off and landing exercises at the Aleppo airport where it is reported ISIS captured the jets. It is only a few minutes from there to Israel.

We see the merging of biotech warfare with terrorist activity while some “leaders” actually believe it is part of the answer to benefit the planet.

A viral pandemic will be rationalized as necessary for the greater good of the masses. Any objection to government action will be labeled as evil and liable for causing more deaths. The public will agree because fear controls and propel the uninformed into the arms of tyrants.
The sick and those declared ill will be confined until they die. Abuse of totalitarian health laws could become a growing concern, especially when the people resist the establishment they no longer trust. Prerequisite for every movement could strap shackles on healthy individuals. No crisis can be allowed to go to waste.

Martial law, enforced by troops along side aid workers, will be welcomed to save humanity as population control will resolve the objectives of the globalists. Utopia of a one world government is just round the corner as millions more die.

Healthcare workers that may have been in contact with Ebola cannot travel within the US but we allow the infected through open borders. This is malpractice at best and suicidal with the worse of intentions.

Drinking the political cool aid has resulted in complacency, inaction and wrong decisions that have compounded the Ebola War. The struggle is to blame anyone or anything except self. An attempt to shift the blame for man’s failures to “God did it” will not succeed but for a season.

Meanwhile, protect your family, protect you immune system. You have a purpose to lead your family, your sphere of influence, to bless and love others regardless of circumstances. The future is bright to those who care. Doom is not yet.

To Fundamentally Transform US

To fundamentally transform US just change the purpose of government agencies and implement regulations to impair growth. We do not learn from politicians by what they say. Listen not to their words but observe what they do. More government is increasingly more incapable of protecting the people.

Credibility is a sacrifice that must be made to accomplish an evil objective. Removal of credibility from each agency is part of the plan. Others are busily focused on the many targets of incompetent agencies and people. The public becomes angry and wants them gone. Determination is so great that individuals are willing to sacrifice their lives to achieve the goal.

The new mission for NASA is relationship building with Museums. The EPA is to choke progress in the name of environment. The lizard triumphs over humans. Make slaves out of the poor so they are more dependant on an incapable government. The IRS is to oversee healthcare. The CDC seems more focused on mandatory motorcycle helmet laws, playground accidents, video games and violence than they are on Ebola. So, Ebola is delegated to the military.

First Time in US History

For the first time in US history of our Military program - known as Military Accessions in the National Interest (MAVNI) is open to immigrants without a proper visa if they came to US with their parents before age 16.

Illegal immigrants without proper visas are scheduled to be approved under a 2012 administration policy known as Deferred Action for Child Arrivals. To mislead the public even more, illegal children approved under DACA can be as old as 31 years of age. Based on an honor system, anyone claiming to be a part of the program cannot be deported.

The plan as outlined by the Department of Defense will allow illegal aliens to join our military and receive citizenship. Already, 90,000 real soldiers and officers serving in our military have been fired leaving room for possible infiltrators. It is criminal to arm an illegal person, but Laws do not matter.

The Army’s 101st Airborne Division is one of the most highly decorated fighting units in the U.S. Army trained for air assault operations. Why was this Division and others called into the Ebola War poorly equipped to handle the situation?
Estimates indicate that more than 4,000 US forces are expected in the fall. It was declared that the mission was to build treatment facilities and train healthcare workers; but, almost all of the initial military deployment are some of the nation’s top combat-trained troops.

Since World War I, the 101st has taken part in historic military campaigns, including leading the D-Day night drop campaign prior to American airborne landings in Normandy. The force played a central role in the Battle of the Bulge, the wars in Vietnam and Persian Gulf, the first and second Iraq wars and the U.S. war in Afghanistan.

US Army veterans, including US Army generals, want facts not fiction. There’s no room for conspiracy theories, just truth. Too often instead of answering hard questions, the media attempts to discredit the massager. Without question, Ebola is dangerous. It is illogical to think otherwise. Still, reports abound with myths and misconceptions.

NEW Army of Violent Criminals
Freed from Jails

This could effect your health. Newly released documents reveal that hundreds of illegal immigrants charged with violent crimes and serious felonies have been released from jails across the country.

According to records obtained by USA Today, the government released inmates charged with offenses ranging from kidnaping and sexual assault to drug trafficking, armed assault, and homicide.

The evidence contradicts previous assurances by the administration that the 617 criminals who were released as part of a cost cutting exercise were low risk offenders charged with misdemeanors "or other criminals whose prior conviction did not pose a violent threat to public safety," USA Today reported.

The Immigration and Customs Enforcement agency has now admitted that numerous dangerous criminals have been released but denied any direct responsibility.

A person in Texas was charged with aggravated kidnaping and sexual assault of a child. An illegal immigrant from Florida was facing charges of conspiracy to commit homicide, according to USA Today. Two Massachusetts detainees had been charged with aggravated assault using a weapon, while another illegal immigrant from Colorado was being held on a sexual assault charge.

The administration released an army of more than 2,200 illegal immigrants from jail between Feb. 9 and March 1, 2013, as part of an effort to cut the number of prisoners due to the budget sequester funding cuts. The detainees had been awaiting deportation or immigration hearings in a court, and the administration did not give advance notice it would be freeing them.

The releases triggered a furor in Congress and hearings with lawmakers who grilled then-ICE Director John Morton.

According to USA Today, Virginia GOP Rep. J. Randy Forbes asked Morton directly, "No one on that list has been charged or convicted with murder, rape, or sexual abuse of a minor, were they?"

Morton, who subsequently resigned, answered with a lie, "They were not."

Former White House spokesman Jay Carney had also described the criminals as "low-risk, noncriminal detainees," USA Today reported.

"It is baffling how an agency charged with homeland security and immigration enforcement would knowingly release hundreds of illegals with criminal histories. In this single action, ICE undermined its own credibility, the rule of law, and the safety of Americans and local law enforcement," Coburn said when the audit was released.
Senator McCain said it is "deeply troubling that ICE would knowingly release thousands of undocumented immigrant detainees - many with prior criminal records - into our streets, while publicly downplaying the danger they posed," USA Today reported.

It is baffling unless you realize we are at war.

Economic Impact

The Ebola War goes beyond what will effect human health. Ebola will compound the economic problem for many countries and the impact will become global.

The world economic system is already "one sick puppy." So says David Stockman who was director of the Office of Management and Budget in the Reagan White House. Debt has created an addiction so great that future financial injections of fiat money will only compound the addiction. Only commodity money instead of fiat money will address the problem. The transition from commodity to fiat money happened when we ended the gold backing of the paper money.

Fiat money, like toxic drugs, result in bloated and unsustainable health. Natural means were replaced by man’s futile attempt to solve world problems. These two broad paths have brought us to the edge of the cliff. Where do we go from here? Down or sail to new heights. I am very optimistic because doom is not yet.

How Shall We Then Live?

The answer for your health rests in your immune system against the pandemic event.
The treatments for Ebola in most cases involve nothing more than the steady replacement of vital fluids, electrolytes and plasma until the patient’s body can build up an immunity to the virus. Those with stronger immune systems before contraction are more likely to survive and beat back the disease. Survival depends on how you respond and take care of your immune system. It seems that part of the plan may have been to destroy trust in government.

Local coops and groups working together with their own doctors and nurses, will provide guidelines to follow.

Lead by example with our own successful health standards while saving people where the establishment could not, would not or cannot. When you can prove you don’t need the system to save you, their rationale for attempting to control you may be diminished.

The spread of Ebola prompted the US Agency for International Development (USAID) to launch “Fighting Ebola: A Grand Challenge for Development” initiative on October 7. Solicitation of ideas can be used to improve the equipment available to African health workers treating Ebola patients on the front lines, particularly as they operate in hot, humid environments that make impermeable suits very difficult to wear. President Obama announced the initiative at the Global Health Security Summit in Washington, D.C., and his administration has said they want to field any new innovations within months.

A Lesson for US

A clear lesson for US is to observe similarities between Ebola in Nigeria and US. Ebola may be the same or similar in each country but management will determine different outcomes.

The outcome will be good instead of disastrous if we quickly correct the stumbles, diagnose properly, have sufficient training and supervised well. Fast and thorough tracing of all potential contacts must be ongoing.
Monitoring of all of those exposed is vital along with rapid isolation of potentially infectious contacts. Hopefully, we have learned to put better safety protocols in place.

The Weapon of UV Light

The Ultra Violet light spectrum renders the DNA in bacteria and viruses impotent to reproduce. In other words, UV light kills Ebola dead. UV light should be used as a weapon in the hands of every health worker.

For many years scientist have observed that certain specific light spectrums have beneficial or harmful attributes. The US Nation Library of Medicine have on file a 1982 paper showing that the Ebola virus and other viruses are made inactive by gamma irradiation. During an investigation of methods for inactivating highly pathogenic viruses including Ebola is was discovered that viruses were inactivated without altering the immunological activity after radiation with Co60 gamma rays. The researchers found the gamma rays method of inactivation to be superior to UV light.

In 1995, Russian scientists discovered that is the UV was not properly handled, it could be disastrous down the road. Some physical and chemical factors to kill Ebola can fail. The paper states that the Ebola virus was found to survive multiple freezing and thawing, stable at storage, and poorly inactivated by UV irradiation.

Interesting Ebola research published in 2007 shows the necessary and sufficient for viral replication and transcription of the viral RNA genetic codes. Another paper in 2011 revealed that Ebola has greater sensitivity to UV radiation (more easily killed) than some other viruses.

A group of doctors in Texas have developed what they call the Xenex Germ-Zapping Robot that kills the Ebola virus with UV light. The RNA or DNA is rendered unreproductive. The robot uses three different types of ultraviolet light. The first two - UV-A and UV-B - the spectrum that reaches the surface of the Earth. The third - UV-C - is blocked by the Earth's ozone layer, and organisms have no defenses against it. The $100,000 Xenex germ killer uses xenon gas to create UV-C light that is 25,000 times more powerful than natural sunlight. The Robot is already in use in 250 hospitals.

Correcting the Human Impaired Immune System is the Answer

Improper gene sequencing can result in poor immunity including autoimmunity. Studies show that the immune system can be improved by consuming Smart Sugars especially mannose.

Gene expression that modulates the immune system is improved with Smart Sugars, especially mannose. Scientists report that proper gene sequencing produces mannose-binding lectins that flow in your bloodstream. When these lectins become attached to a virus, they help break it down so the immune system can better finish it off. More research is needed but unlike toxic drugs, it is difficult to consume too much mannose or other non-toxic Smart Sugars in a day’s time. It appears safe to say, “more is better”. Recent studies show that the immune system is better able to handle inflammation with additional Smart Sugars.

It’s time Smart Sugars are brought to the battle. While everyone is unique and no two immune systems respond the same, every effort needs to be made to equip the immune system to take care of the attacks. I have seen impossible cases turned around. Smart Sugars have saved the lives of adults and newborn babies from deadly toxic buildup that nothing else could address. The Doctors of Tomorrow will use Smart Sugars to build the human immune system to kill the killer.
What do I do next?

If you have had any contact with anyone that may have been exposed to Ebola, consult with your health professional.

2) Learn specifics;
3) Take action with verifiable professional guidance

Become educated on ways to improve your immune system. Immediately stop consumption of toxic food, drink and smoke. Smoking is one of the most damaging habits a person can have. Secondhand smoke is as harmful. Consuming table sugar, high fruit corn syrup (HFCS) and artificial sweeteners lower your immune system.

For two decades, Smart Sugars have been our focus. Our mission is to educate without charge the public and healthcare professionals on the science of the sugars - Glycoscience and Glycoimmunology. Check out our websites for a wealth of educational articles and research. We have books and advanced science courses that are for sale.

The Source and Reference section is not exhaustive and students are welcome to study our educational websites for more comprehensive studies. www.GlycoscienceNEWS.com and www.Glycosciencewhitepaper.com
